Wine making note

Laposa Alcohol-Free Welschriesling – Premium technology, authentic wine experience

Laposa Alcohol-Free Welschriesling is made from authentic wine, from which the alcohol is gently removed using a process known as vacuum distillation.

This is a particularly delicate process, as the reduction in pressure allows the alcohol to evaporate at a temperature of around 30 °C, thus preserving the heat-sensitive flavors and aromas of the wine.

Most alcohol-free wines lose much of their enjoyment value at this stage, as the majority of the valuable aromas are lost along with the alcohol.

However, we do not allow this character to be lost: we use SOLOS® technology, one of the most modern aroma recovery systems currently available, to preserve the qualities of the wine.

This process allows us to separate the aromatic substances that leave with the alcohol in a separate step, separate them from the alcohol, and then gently return them to the wine.

The result is an elegant, refreshing, yet characterful non-alcoholic drink that offers the experience of wine consumption – without alcohol.
